NOTICE.

1891.

Clayoquot Station, West Coast.

MR. JOHN L. PENNEY desires to thank those owners of Sealing Schooners who gave him their patronage last year, and begs to announce that he has now fitted the above station with all requirements for Sealing Schooners, and is in a position to supply Coal, Water, or any necessaries at the shortest notice, causing as little delay as possible.

Great improvements have been made during the past year, among which a powerful red light, 50 ft. high, has been erected, and water laid to the end of wharf.

He will also store Skins free of any charge, and ship the same to Victoria, May 1st, at as low a rate as possible.

Clayoquot Station is the West Coast Post Office, and receives mail from Victoria bi-weekly. In fact Mr. Penney will endeavor to study the owners' interests to the best of his ability by making his prices as reasonable as possible.

N.B.—Charts of Clayoquot free on application to Messrs. Marvin & Cox, of this city or to himself.

THE POOR OF EUROPE.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—From all parts of Europe comes the cry of the suffering poor.
London is in as much need of Balfour's relief fund as Ireland. The poor boxes in the magistrates' courts are exhausted in answering calls of respectable and well recommended people, and thousands are known to be starving at home sooner than accept the
alternative of going to the workhouse.

The Salvation Army shelters are crowded,
and for several nights many have had to be
turned away for lack of accommodation.

The charge at these shelters for supper, bed
and breakfast is fourpence, but those without money are received and are allowed to pay in labor. In Paris the authorities are hiring additional buildings for the reception
of the destitute, numbers of whom wander
all night in the streets. Warming rooms
for their comfort are very successful in
alleviating the misery, and a movement
is on foot to add a bowl of soup for each person. A petition has been presented to the German Emperor representing the terrible condition of the inhabitants of Schweidnitz and other districts in Silesia, where typhus fever, brought on by hunger, is claiming many victims. The Duke of Ratibore, leader of the feudal
party in Prussia, owns much territory
there, but appears indifferent to the sufferings of his people.

THE TROUBLE IN CHILI.

A dispatch from Buenos Ayres says that Don Augustina Edwards, a very wealthy
man, is said to be the moving spirit of the revolution in Chili, and will take Balmassa-
da's place should the revolution prove successful. Valparaiso is in a very excited
condition, and only the presence of a num-
berous garrison prevents an outbreak.
Popular sympathy is almost entirely with
the insurgents.

AN OMINOUS COINCIDENCE.

An ominous coincidence is mentioned in connection with the festivities of Monday night at Berlin. Emperor William was to have made a speech, but his physicians insisted that he should not, owing to a sore throat. This was exactly the first public announcement made regarding the trouble
which brought about the death of the late Emperor Frederick, and recollection of that fact cast no little gloom over Monday
night's brilliant assembly. The question
suggested to many minds is whether the
young Kaiser has the beginning of the terrible complaint which gave him the crown
at thirty. The German press dare not hint
at such a thing, but Berlin is full of whispers.

RUSSIA OPPRESSING GERMANS.

A Berlin dispatch states that the German
cabinet has been asked to remonstrate with Russia against the harsh attack upon the German settlers in Russia-Poland. The settlers were induced by the Russians to come to Poland and take up the lands from which the Poles had been expelled. The German colonists have a very prosperous
Berlin company at Doubo, even owning a railway. Now that the relations of Germany and Russia are changed, Russia has discovered that the Germans are dangerous
and threatens to drive them out of the empire.

A POLITE HINT.

The sergeant-at-arms of the House of Commons has notified the Irish leaders that he cannot provide a room any longer for a
continuance of the debates over the question
of the Irish leadership, as all the rooms are required for various committees. This is looked upon as a hint that the House does
not wish the wrangle continued in the halls
of Westminster, as the officer, no doubt,
acted under instructions.

THE NEW EARL OF CAITHNESS.

Lord Berriedale, who has succeeded to
the ancient earldom of Caithness, is not unknown in America. He recently returned from estates which he owns in Dakota.
Lord Berriedale is 33 years old and a bachelor. He succeeds to a title short of territorial honors, although the Earls of Caithness once ruled the far north of Scotland from sea to sea.

THE SCOTISH RAILWAY STRIKE.

The Scottish railway strike continues to
show signs of breaking up, and there is a
general disposition to end the dispute.
Forty-four of the strikers, including a number of veteran engineers, resumed work tonight.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

In the Interest of Parnell.

WATERFORD, Jan. 20.—Delegates of the trades and labor federation in session here
to-day, by a vote of 291 to 28, decided to attend en masse a public demonstration in
the interest of Parnell.

Caused by Earthquakes.

GENEVA, Jan. 20.—Slight earthquake
shocks were experienced here to-day, and
the drowning of three persons which occurred shortly afterwards, whilst skating in
the harbor is attributed to the ice having been broken by shocks.

To Relieve the Poor.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—The request of Minister
Constans for a further grant of 100,000
francs, to relieve the distress in the provinces, has been agreed to by the Chamber of Deputies.

In the Interest of Peace.

VIENNA, Jan. 20.—The Neue Free Press
says that the importance of the visit to St.
Petersburg of Prince Ferdinand, of Bulgaria,
cannot well be over estimated, inasmuch as
his journey is made in the interest of peace,

and is an assuring evidence of the friendly
relations which exist between Vienna and St. Petersburg. The paper believes that the visit of the Prince will demonstrate that
the Czar does not intend submitting to pan-Slavist influences so long as Austria wishes
to maintain peace with her Russian neighbors.

Parnellite Meeting in London.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—A circular has been issued, calling upon all of Parnell's parliamentary followers to meet, to-morrow, in London. Parnell is expected to preside in person, and it is understood that a plan will be determined upon for the guidance of the Parnellites during the coming session of Parliament.

ESQUIMALT HAPPENINGS.

Repairs to the "Costa Rica" About
Completed—To Leave the Dry
Dock, this Morning.

Which Shall be Next?—A Number of Vessels Waiting Their Turn
to be Overhauled.

On Saturday, November 29, last, the
steamship Costa Rica, during a dense fog,
ran aground in the Straits, sustaining injuries of a most serious description, which,
it was thought, rendered her destruction
almost inevitable. With the assistance of the tugs Lorne and Pilot, with the U. S.
cutter Corwin, she was, however, got off,
when it was discovered that a sharp piece
of rock had pierced her starboard bow, that
her keel had been badly smashed, a large
quantity of her plates torn from the rivets,
and that otherwise she had received very rough treatment. On being brought into port she was placed in the Esquimalt dry
dock, thoroughly surveyed and inspected,
and a contract entered into with that well
equipped establishment, the Albion Iron Works, to repair her and render her sea-
worthy. The contract, it is understood,
gave the Albion company some ninety days
in which to complete the work they undertook, the price being
it was said in the vicinity of $40,000, which sum included dockage charges. Knowing that there were numbers of vessels which
desired to enter the graving dock without unnecessary delay, the management of the Iron works began to figure out things and
concluded that by working double shifts
they would, despite the extra cost of night
work, be able to make a saving in their expenditures and the better serve the vessel
owners and the shipping trade generally.

Accordingly, with their accustomed enterprise, they adopted the last mentioned
course, and have the satisfaction of being able to let the vessel out of dock within 44
days. The work was superintended by Captain Collier, agent for Lloyd's and Government hull inspector; the manager,
Mr. Bullen, of the contracting company
having entrusted the work to Mr. Shaw,
who has been unremitting in his exertions
as, Captain Collier says, has turned out
a job second to none that could be turned out in any establishment. It was,
he said, first-class in every way, which was
only to have been expected when one considers the splendid work which was done on
H. M. S. Amphion. The Costa Rica was,
except for the presence of her machinery
and upper works, almost a sheer hulk when she was taken in hand, but now, according
to Captain Collier, is, in many respects, stronger than ever she was before. How much she was damaged will be gathered
from the fact that it became necessary to take out 45 plates, to replace 45 feet of keel, and supply 100 ribs which had been smashed and twisted until as they
lie on the wharf they look almost like
gigantic corkscrews. Her main keelson
had to be entirely taken out, as well as many of her longitudinal bars, while at her
bow there was an unusual amount of work to be done. Although she has left
the dock there remain eight to ten days'
work to be done on her floors and carpentry
work, which will be done as she lies out in the harbor. Yesterday morning Captain Lewis, Mr. Finlayson, Captain Collier,
Mr. Gamble, the vessel's chief engineer, and Captain McIntyre, her commander, made an
expert and thorough inspection of the ship,
Mr. Gamble putting on a water pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch, all of which she satisfactorily underwent, and this morning will take the water as sound and seaworthy as ever she was. This morning
at four o'clock water will be let into the
dock, and about seven o'clock the vessel is expected to again take the water.

The American steamers Tybee and Mogul,
the former an exceedingly powerful tug, and
the latter a steamer out of which international complications arose a little time back, are waiting to go into the dock, both having
sustained injuries to their four-foot and keel. It is expected that they will receive the needed repairs at the hands of the Albion Iron Works who have undertaken
to repair the Mongkut and the Olympian.

There is some curiosity as to which vessel
will first go into dock, the City of Kingston
and Olympian being both ready, but it is believed the latter will have admission
first.

NOTES.

The ship Henry Villard lies out in the stream and is taking in salmon from the steamer R. P. Richart. It is reported that she is waiting for the arrival of the Danube
in order to fill up, immediately on which
she will sail for Great Britain.

The barque Oregon left Esquimalt yester-
day morning in tow of the steamer Lorne.

This evening a social dance will be given in the Blue Ribbon Hall by the officers of the Costa Rica, and their friends. A large number of invitations have been issued.
The festivities will begin at 9 o'clock this evening. Arrangements have been made for all the necessary tram car service, a car
leaving for the city after the close of the ball. Piper Munroe will give appropriate Scottish music at intervals, and it is quite
expected that a number of Scotchmen will attend in their kilts in compliment to the
hosts, who are many of them Scotchmen.

REGULAR action of the bowels is the key stone of health. The use of B. B. B. insures
it and cures constipation, dyspepsia, etc.

writes: "Have used your Burdock Blood Purifiers for constipation and pain in the head with great success. I improved from the second dose."

LE ROI EST MORT.

David Kalakaua, King of the Hawaiian Islands, Expires at San Francisco

After About a Week's Illness from Bright's Disease—The Death-Bed Scene.

His Successor will be His Eldest Sister, the Present Regent
of the Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—For the past
week, King Kalakaua has been ill at the Palace Hotel, and his case gradually became more serious. He suffered from an aggravated case of Bright's disease, the result of high living. Early this morning, his condition suddenly changed for the worse, and
Rev. Dr. Church, of the Episcopal church,
of which the king is a member, administered the sacrament to the royal invalid.

LE ROI EST MORT.

David Kalakaua, King of the Hawaiian Islands, died in San Francisco, at the Palace Hotel, at precisely half-past two o'clock,
this p. m. At noon his case was pronounced hopeless by all the attending physicians, and the end was awaited. The king's eyes wandered and rolled about recognizing no one. His breath came fast
and thick, and sweat poured from his forehead. The body servant leaned over him
every moment, and sponged heads of perspiration off and cooled the King's brow.
It was evident to all that the King of Terrors was at hand. Whether one hour or six remained of life, no one knew. The king's bed was moved around so that his feet were pointed in the direction of his island home that he was never again to
see. The South Sea Islanders, brother and sister, who had been brought up by the King, though not Hawaiians, moved to and fro with no less step. The young girl,
dressed in her blue gown, had been weep-
ing. She had been Kalakaua's faithful nurse. About the bed were Col. McFarlane and Consul-General McKinley, with physicians, watch in hand. At the head of the bed, passing his hand caressingly over
the head of his king, was Colonel Baker,
with no eyes save for the dying form before
him. On the bed, with a light coverlet
thrown over him, which every now and then he threw impatiently off by a movement of his shoulder, lay the dying
king. Every one that looked at
that enaciated form felt the pathos
of the scene. The once strong and vigorous monarch of the Hawaiian Islands
gasping, his head resting on a pillow
that was covered with heavy embroidery.
The face formed a sure indication of the nearness of the end. The lower jaw had dropped down and the tongue clove to the roof of the mouth, so that the rasping
sound caused by his breathing was painful
to hear. The eyes had ceased to roll and stared stolidly upwards, exposing the whites. The nostrils were distended and the cheek bones made more prominent than usual by the contraction of the cheeks. The forehead was wrinkled and the features bore an expression of dreadful pain. The dying man seemed to wish to cry out,
but no cry could issue from that dry
and parched throat, and nothing could be done to relieve the thirst save to wet, now
and then, the lips. At one o'clock, respi-
ration had ceased, the gasps came quicker
and quicker, and at just half-past two the Hawaiian breathed his last. Those present
in the dying man's chamber in his last moments were Col. McFarlane, Col. Baker, Claus Spreckels, Gen. Dimond, Admiral
Brown, Dr. Woods, Dr. Taylor, Dr. Saw-
yer, Godfrey Rhodes, Charles R. Bishop, Consul-General McKinley, Mrs. McKinley,
Mrs. Bishop, Rev. Dr. J. Sanders Reed,
and a number of officers of the navy.

VIVE LA REINE.

The successor to the crown is the regent,
Princess Lydia K. Liliuokalani, eldest sister of King Kalakaua, who was proclaimed
heir apparent to the throne, April 12th, 1877, in accordance with the constitution.
Princess Liliuokalani is at present regent in
the Kingdom, and on two former occasions
was called upon to act in the same high capacity. She was born September 2nd, 1839. It is her constitutional right to name her successor by proclamation, and
there can be no doubt whatever that she
will name her niece, Princess Kaiulani,
only daughter of her sister, the late Princess Likelike, and the Hon. A. C. Cleghorn, her husband. Princess Kaiulani is now in England, where she is being suitably educated for her future exalted position. This young lady was born at Honolulu, October 16th, 1867.

THE HAWAIIAN MINISTRY.

The death of King Kalakaua will necessarily cause a change of ministry, but there is no reason to suppose that there will be any modification of the cabinet. The premier, Hon. Jno. Cummings, is a native,
and represents the native interests of the
kingdom, while possessing the entire confidence of the foreigners. Liliuokalani is a very clever woman, and, although she would prefer to be surrounded by ministers and
people of her own race, she is too shrewd to antagonize the foreign element by making any radical changes. The present ministry
possessed the confidence of the legislature, as
expressed by vote prior to its prorogation,
and the sovereign cannot dismiss it except
upon a direct vote of non-confidence by the Legislature. What will happen is this:
The ministry will resign in compliance with constitutional usage, on the death of the
king being announced, and will be immediately sworn in as constitutional advisors
of the new sovereign, as possessing the confidence of the Legislature. Any other procedure would be revolutionary. Liliuoka-lani, as Queen, will make a change in her
personal attendants, and, probably, either Curtis, Lukea or Wilcox, the revolutionary leader, will become chamberlain. It is probable, however, that Col. Geo. W. Mc-Farlane may be continued in that position.
Outside of the chamberlain's office, no
change is likely to be made.

THE LATE KING.

King Kalakaua was born about 1838, of
one of the highest families in the Sandwich Islands. At the death of Kamehameha, in 1872, David Kalakaua and William Lunalilo,
the latter was elected by a plebiscite, which
was confirmed by the legislature.

He died about a year afterwards, when

Kalakaua again advanced his claim, and
was elected by the legislature in February, 1874, since which time he has occupied the throne.

VICTORIA JOCKEY CLUB.

The Spring Races to Take Place at the Victoria Driving Park on the First and Second of May Programme Adopted.

A meeting of the Victoria Jockey Club
was held at the office of Dalby, Ballentyne & Claxton, on Monday evening, Mr. R. P.
Rithet in the chair. The following programme was adopted:

FIRST DAY.

Friday, May 1, 1891.

1st race, Trotting, 2:40 class, 3 in 5 heats,
Purse, $250.

2nd, Running, half-mile race; heats, 2 in 3,
Purse, $150.

3rd race, Roadster horses, bona-fide to have
belonged to the province for one month previous to the race; gentlemen riders; heats, 2 in
3. Entrance fee, $5. Prize, a cup or set of harness, valued at $30.

4th race, (Gentlemen riders) 1 mile dash;
minimum weight, 115 lbs. Entrance fee, $5.
Prize, cup.

SECOND DAY.

5th, Trotting, free for all; heats, 3 in 5.
Purse, $300.

6th, Mile race, running; heats, 2 in 3. Purse, $200.

7th race, Queen's Plate, 11 miles dash. Purse, $500 and piece of plate; second, saves entrance
fee.

The conditions and regulations will be
the same as used last year.

The committee thought that merchants,
licensed victuallers and others who took an interest in racing, might make up a purse
for one or more races. The printed programme will be ready for distribution in a few days, and persons desirous of any information in the meantime can apply to the secretary, Mr. W. H. Bainbridge.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Canada to Take Part in the International Postal Convention, With a Practical Representative.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—Canada has been invited to participate in the International Postal Convention to be held in Vienna in May. Col. White, deputy postmaster-general, is spoken of as Canada's representative.

Six citizens of New Glasgow each received a handsome binocular from the Government for saving seven of the crew of the British bark Melmerby, wrecked off Pictou
last October.

Further Indian scare reports from North
Dakota have proved foundationless.

Nothing is known here of any communication from England respecting the suggested inter-colonial customs convention, to embrace Canada, Newfoundland and the West Indies.

Sir John spends three days in Toronto,
next week.

The Governor-General has asked the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to assist to put a stop to the practice
of harnessing dogs to sleighs.

SUICIDE ON THE ABYSSINIA.

One of the Cabin Passengers Shoots Himself
Through the Head When the Vessel
Is Four Days From Vancouver.

J. S. Turner, a cabin passenger on the Abyssinia, from Hong Kong to Vancouver,
Nothing is known here of any communi-
cated by shooting himself twice in the head
with a revolver, four days before the steam-
ship reached Vancouver, on Saturday.
Deceased was 46 years of age. On June 11,
1889, the dead man had a difficulty at War-rentown, Va., with Robert Turner, a
brother-in-law, caused by the ill treatment
of Turner towards his sister, in which Robt.
Turner was severely punished. Shortly afterwards both parties met with pistols,
when Robert Turner was killed. Lieut.
E. H. Turner then left Warrentown and travelled to Spain. As a representative of a San Francisco company he secured large concessions from the Spanish government in the Marshall Islands. It was presumably to close up business matters with his firm
that brought him over. The dead man
leaves two children in his native home.
Before taking his life he drew up a will,
leaving instructions as to the disposition of
his property and body. His personal effects are valued at $10,000, of which $700 in cash was found on his person, sufficient to pay all expenses.

The body was embalmed at Vancouver
and sent to Elizabeth, N.J., on Monday,
according to instructions, where the deceased's mother is buried. His will and effects are in the hands of the United States consul at Vancouver. Turner's estate is valued at a large amount. It is said that deceased was a son of Admiral Turner, of the United States Pacific squadron.

CHEMAINUS NOTES.

The Chemainus sawmill is rapidly progressing, and the owners are in hope of having it in full running order by the first of April.

A musical soiree was given by Mrs.
James Magary at her residence, Saturday. A very pleasant evening was passed by those who attended.

Mrs. Chas. McKoon, with her child, is paying a visit to her mother.

The social and conversation that is booked for Wednesday night, promises to be a grand affair. Some of Cowichan's
leading talent will assist on that occasion.

Mrs. Lewis G. Hill is visiting relatives
in Victoria.

Miss Curry, our efficient school teacher,
is about to leave us to fill a position on
the teaching staff of Seattle's schools.
It is worthy of mention here that on the occasion of the recent holidays, in
the absence of Miss Currie, the children
of the school had a very enjoyable entertainment, got up under the direction of Miss Mollie Carmody, when Santa Claus
appeared in all his glory and, having in-

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

First Session of the Sixth Parliament.

SECOND DAY.

VICTORIA, Jan. 20, 1891.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the speaker took the chair, and after prayers by the Rev. Arthur Beaudin, the House proceeded to the consideration of the orders of the day.

THE REPLY TO THE SPEECH.

Mr. Hunter, in moving the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, and the consideration of the speech, asked the House to accompany him back in their minds for a period of twenty years, when he first took his seat as a member of the legislative assembly. The House of that day was undivided in its fealty to the people and the responsible government of the people. Of those composing that assembly, some now were filling responsible positions, some had gone to that undiscovered country, while a few, he was pleased to see, were still to be his associates in the present parliament. Among the latter was the leader of the Government to-day. Long before responsible government was the possession of the people of British Columbia, that gentleman had fought long and hard for this inalienable right, of which he was still the champion. It was true that he had modified his views somewhat since then, and he (the hon. member for Comox) could now give him his cordial support. (Applause.) Another of the members of that parliament of twenty years ago, who had occupied a seat next to him, was the now leader of Her Majesty's right loyal opposition. That gentleman, too, had modified his opinion. That hon. gentleman had now been in 21 years' continuous, unrewarded service, and one could not but admire his unswerving loyalty to his party and his position. He was sorry not to have the benefit of the experience and argumentative abilities of the hon. member for Yale on his side of the House, but felt, in a measure, compensated by the presence of the representative of the stormy islands of the Gulf. He was sure all the members of the present legislature would prove an honor to their country and their constituents. Turning to the consideration of the speech itself, he expressed the greatest pleasure with the satisfactory condition of the revenue of the province. The estimated revenue for 1890 had fallen short of the actual by nearly $100,000. The prosperity of the principal industries of British Columbia was equally pleasant to contemplate. In 1874, the net output of the coal mines was 81,000 tons; there was now every reason to believe that the output for 1890 would total 633,292 tons. From 1880 to 1890 there had been an increase of 96,538 tons. The fisheries of the province were thriving, and kindred industries were in an equally healthy condition. In regard to land surveys, nothing was required more than accurate information regarding public lands, and an accurate map of the province. When the early topographers were making maps of British Columbia, and came across a section of those characteristics they were unformed, they threw in a range of mountains; and, if this single range did not look well, artistically, another range was added to complete the effect. All the purely provincial railways were prospering, and their interests should be closely watched, as there was nothing like railway construction to develop any country. Look at the country to the South, with its thousands of miles of road, employing 800,000 men, and representing a capital of $9,000,000. What has made the United States the mighty nation it is to-day? Its railways. It was often heard that British Columbia was not an agricultural country. True, there was much waste land within its borders, but the large areas of rich land in the central plateau of the province, and along the rivers, were sufficient to provide a food supply for a great population. It was gratifying to learn that the scattered public debt of the province could be consolidated into a compact whole with advantage to the province. It would be much better for all concerned, and would tend to promote mutual confidence. Although British Columbia was a mining country, and had been regarded as such for thirty years past, the mining laws were not yet satisfactory. A practical commission had now gone through these mining laws, and the result would be an act on the statute book which would protect the rights of the individual miner and the capitalist. The workmen would be sure to feel highly flattered to know that a measure for their benefit would be introduced by the government. He hoped that the day was not far distant when something more would be done for the laboring men and the disastrous conflicts between labor and capital would be at an end. Amendments to the railway act were necessary, so were amendments to the Assessment Act. It was to be hoped that in the latter measure provision would be made to compel those who have no idea of improving their land, so to do, or to make them feel the consequences of their indolence. The members of the sixth parliament were gathered as the representatives of a great territory, and, before the expiration of the present decade, on which we were just entering, this country of ours would take its place among the greatest in the world; British Columbia had a magnificent destiny, and, in framing the country's great future, the members of the present legislature would play an important, and, he believed, an honorable part. (Applause.)

Mr. Stoddart, in rising to second the reply to the speech, acknowledged the compliment that had been paid to the district represented by him in calling upon him to perform this duty. Looking at the record of the Government for the past four years, he said, one could not but be impressed with the fact that the Government's policy had been one calculated to advance all the interests of the province. The province was still in its infancy, and required a decidedly progressive policy. Our main dependence in developing the resources of the province, must for years be foreign capital, and every encouragement in the power of the Government should be given outside investors. He was glad to see the construction of railways substantially encouraged, and hoped, before long, to see the first road turned for the Cariboo railway. Stock-raising, in the interior of the province, was becoming a great industry, and other industries, as great, were growing up in other parts of the province. He was very hopeful of British Columbia's future; it had all the materials for making a mighty country. (Applause.)

Hon. Mr. Beaven congratulated the honorable members for Comox and Lillooet upon the able manner upon which they had submitted their side of the case to the House. The hon. member for Comox had been good enough to refer to the condition of the House when he (Mr. Hunter) first took his seat. He had been kind enough to compliment him (Hon. Mr. Beaven) upon his long service, but he had referred to that service as unrewarded. While it was not rewarded, peculiarly, he found his reward in the estimation of the citizens of Victoria. He denied that he had at all modified his opinions since he sat and voted with the hon. member for Comox. He was glad to see the two representatives of Vancouver present; that a city of the size of their constituency should have grown up within the past few years was substantial evidence of the progress of the country. He charged the leader of the government with violating the principles of responsible government in a "grossly immoral manner," and asserted that the prosperity of the country was due in no way to the efforts of the Government. The prosperity of the province was principally the result of better means of communication, and this was due to individual effort. He was glad to see the Independents, and was one himself. He would support all good and oppose all bad measures. Unless men came to the House prepared to follow wherever the provincial secretary led, that hon. gentleman had said that they might as well stay at home, they could not gain admittance to the Government caucus. This was not responsible government. The recent withdrawal from sale of certain public lands was practically locking the stable door after the steed had been stolen. He believed that the sale of these lands had not been legally stopped and would not stand test, if any one wanted to force the Government to sell. The House, in allowing the Government to act in this manner, was guilty of compounding a felony—a penitentiary offence. The work of the Mining Commission, he believed, should have been done by the Government themselves. They were paid to do this work, and not to have the premier summon a little parliament of his own choosing to make the people's laws. He accused the Government of continual blundering in mining legislation, and of being responsible for the land in the railway belt not being in alternate blocks. The railway policy of the government was a failure, and it was his opinion that a general act should be passed, under which all railway companies might incorporate.

Hon. Mr. Robson though the House was to be congratulated on the possession of so much new material of excellent quality, as was evident from the addresses of the mover and seconder of the reply to the speech. The hon. member for Comox had evidently meant to be facetious in referring to himself as the only stable one of those of the parliament of 1871 now occupying seats in the House. His record for the past twenty-five years was before the public, and it would refute the insinuations of the honorable leader of the Opposition. He would have had little to say in regard to the statement made by that hon. gentleman had he not put words into his (the premier's) mouth. He had been rather stunned by the broad statements of the leader of the Opposition, that he (the premier) had done his best to prevent railways coming into British Columbia. History, from the time of the convention at Yale in 1868, until now, would show that no man had been a more earnest or persistent advocate than he, that union with the Eastern provinces without railway communication, was merely a union on paper. The railway was the only practical method of confederation, and he had always strongly supported the building of the C.P.R. and every other road that would be calculated to benefit British Columbia. The hon. gentleman admitted that the province was in a prosperous condition, but he says it is in spite of the government. This was easily said, and if it pleased the leader of the opposition, it could hurt no one. The people, generally, would admit that the prosperity of the province and the progressive policy of the Government went together. When the Government took office, the country was in a state of stagnation. Was it not due to the ineffectual efforts of the leader of the Opposition? Was it not due to the illiberal policy of the Government of which he was leader? It was a remarkable circumstance that the era of prosperity, progress and public confidence dawned very shortly after the stick-in-the-mud party went out and the present party came in. He was perfectly well satisfied with the result of the general election; could the leader of the Opposition say as much? Last session that hon. gentleman and his following numbered eight. Now how many were there? In regard to the independents, on the hustings their universal declaration was that they had no

THE TERMINUS OF THE

SHUSWAP & OKANAGAN RAILWAY.

Sited in the Heart of the Famous Okanagan Valley.

THE RAILWAY CENTRE OF THE INTERIOR.

The Shuswap & Okanagan Railway is now under construction, and will be completed and in operation to Vernon next summer, 1891.

The Okanagan & Kootenay Railway Co. obtained a charter (with land grants of 20,000 acres per mile) to construct a railway from Vernon to Sproul's Landing via the Coldstream Valley and Cherry Creek Mines.

A charter will be applied for at the next session of the Local Legislature to construct a Railway from Vernon south to the International Boundary to connect with the American railway system.

This is a great chance to make money, as Vernon, being in the heart of the most extensive agricultural district in the Province, will undoubtedly become a large and flourishing city.

Arrangements have been completed with responsible parties for publishing a good weekly paper at Vernon, to commence business early in the new year. This paper will be circulated by the company in all parts of the world.

A large Hotel will be erected early next spring and plans for same are now being prepared.

PLANS OF TOWN-SITE ARE NOW IN ALL REAL ESTATE OFFICES.

A large number of lots have already been sold and most of these will have buildings erected on them early next year.

Special inducements are offered to builders. See price list. Free sites will be given to parties establishing industries.

Financial assistance will also be given to responsible parties engaging in legitimate enterprises.

ADVANCE IN PRICES.

The Company will advance prices of all central lots early next month. Intending purchasers should not delay selecting lots now in order to obtain the benefit of this advance.

Vernon is situated in a pass commanding and making tributary to it the whole of the famous Okanagan Valley and its tributary valleys, the grazing country of the Lower Nicola, the mining camps of Rock Creek, Granite Creek, Keremess, Okanagan and Monishee Mountain, the placer diggings of Cherry Creek and Siwash Creek. It is impossible to get to any of the above places without first going through Vernon.

The opening of the Shuswap & Okanagan Railway next summer will flood this favored country with land and mining prospectors, &c., and will give a great impetus to the farming, fruit growing, grazing and mining industries. Several important industries are projected and will likely be started in Vernon next year.

The best advice we can give intending purchasers is to go and see for yourselves. The C. P. R. to Sicamous, Stage from Sicamous to Vernon. Leave Vancouver on Mondays or Fridays, arrive Vernon Tuesday or Friday evening.

connection with the opposition and were prepared to support all good measures introduced by the government. Could more be asked of them? He denied that. He wanted government supporters to be his servile tools. He wanted hon. gentlemen who would support all good and oppose all bad measures, and could give their reasons for the stand they took. He had said, it was true, that it was an advantage to have a member who would have the right to attend government caucuses. So it was, as that member was more in the confidence of the government, and could obtain the ear of the government more readily. The hon. leader of the opposition talked as though the caucus was peculiar to this government and country. This was not the fact. In every country in the civilized world where responsible government was maintained, the caucus played an important part. The member for Cassiar last year had said that as long as the government continued to take the representatives of the people into its confidence and formed its policy to meet the needs of the country, there would be no getting them out of power. This was the very essence of responsible government—to administer affairs in accordance with the best wishes of the people, with the greatest advantage to the country. How could the government obtain a knowledge of the wishes of the people if it did not consult with the people's representatives? Did the opposition want the five members of the cabinet to sit in their offices and formulate a policy without consulting the people's representatives? A greater compliment could not have been paid to the Government than had been by the member for Cassiar of last year. If the Government continued to act with the people as they were, there would be no possibility of the people ever turning them out of power. Why should there be, as long as the Government carried on the business of the country with satisfaction and advantage to the people? He never could see that the Opposition had any policy except a policy to try and get into power. He never had known of the Opposition trying to have surveys made of the public lands, although the leader of the Opposition claimed that he had first suggested action in this direction. He had never said that the land laws were perfect, nor thought that they were. The leader of the Opposition wanted it to appear that the action in regard to amending the land laws was taken from the policy of the Opposition. He had been amused at the remarks of the leader of the Opposition upon this subject, after the action of the Government had been endorsed by the press all over the province. The question of making the needed reforms in the land laws had been purposely adjourned until this session, after the general election, in order that it might be dealt with by a House fresh from the people and more thoroughly representing them. The hon. leader of the Opposition had found fault with the manner in which the public lands were withdrawn from the market, and he gave as his opinion that, if a person tried, he could still compel them to sell. Did the hon. gentleman know that a trial had been made in court, and it had been decided that the Land Act was merely an enabling act, and the chief commissioner could at any time refuse to sell? To take the method advised, by making larger reservations, would be to shut the door on the actual settler as well as the speculator. The government's whole land policy was alleged to be stolen from the opposition. When this government came in the leader of the opposition was chief commissioner of lands and works. Then any speculator who wished could come in and buy all the agricultural land he liked at $1 per acre. As soon as the government of to-day came in the price was raised from $1 to $2.50 per acre, and the wild land, too, was raised from 5 to 8 cents per acre. If this government had stolen the land policy of the opposition it would still be selling agricultural land at $1 an acre. The leader of the Opposition had pronounced it a penitentiary offence to sell land at $2.50 per acre; would it then be a capital crime to sell at $1?

The leader of the Government proceeded to contradict the "chestnutty" stories brought forward by the leader of the Opposition. He hailed with satisfaction the advent of so much new blood in the House, and predicted that this would be the best parliament in the history of British Columbia. (Cheers.)

Mr. Foster said that he had been asked to speak on behalf of the members who had entered the House pledged to remain Independent. Those members intended to take no part in unnecessary debates, and he did not believe that the present was the time to speak. When any measure came before the House the Independents would be prepared to give it careful consideration and honest vote.

of reminiscences of twenty years ago. He always supported what he believed to be the greatest good to the greatest number. He referred to the land question, the manner in which the policy of the government was formed and the appointment of the mining commission. He, too, welcomed the appearance of the so-called Independents in the House.

The debate was here adjourned on motion of Mr. Grant.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.
The bill to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among horses and cattle was read a first time, and set for second reading Wednesday.

COMPENSATION.
The bill to provide for compensation for injuries received by workmen under certain cases passed its first reading, and the second was set for Wednesday.

Mr. Speaker announced that hereafter the House would assemble promptly at 2 p.m., and the adjournment until Wednesday at the usual hour was taken.

NOTICES OF MOTION.
By Mr. Beaven—To move that the committee on standing orders and private bills, and the committee on railways, should see that all private bills, granting franchises or rights, contain sections providing against the employment of Chinese on any work to be undertaken in pursuance of the bill.

By Mr. Beaven—To move that the principle of eight hours constituting a day should be adopted in carrying on Provincial public works. And that a clause should be inserted in all contracts for such to the effect that the hours making up a day's work of the workmen and of laborers to be employed under it shall not be more than eight; and a penalty for the violation of such provision by the contractor or sub-contractor should be included.

By Hon. Mr. Robson—To move to increase the membership of the standing committee on railways from fifteen to eighteen, and the quorum from eight to ten.

By Hon. Mr. Robson—To move to increase the membership of the standing committee on mining from seven to nine, with five as a quorum.

QUESTION.
By Mr. Kallie—To ask the hon. Chief Commissioner: What amount of timber lands have been granted under lease during 1890, and what amount of timber lands are now under notice of application for lumbering purposes.

CITY POLICE COURT.

Three Drunks and one Vagrant were Disposed of and one Case Remained in Court Yesterday.

After two drunks had pleaded guilty and been disposed of in the usual manner, John Henning was ordered to stand up to answer the charge of being a vagrant. He pleaded guilty. The officer who arrested him was then sworn. He said that he found prisoner lying in a saw dust pile back of Saward's mill, with an oil cloth between him and the saw dust. When His Honor asked him why he slept outside, prisoner said that he did not believe in sleeping on the road when he could find a more commodious and comfortable place of shelter. As the plea corresponded to the one given before when he was up on the same charge, His Honor sentenced him to three months, with hard labor.

Fanny Stamford, charged with being an inmate of a house of ill-fame, was fined $50. The case of James J. Daley was remanded for another week, with the intention of having it settled at the next hearing.

"SUPREME COURT."

BOOTH AND HIS CRITICS.

The transgressor is not the only one whose way in these days is hard, the way of the reformer is made by both well-intentioned men and ill-intentioned men almost as hard. General Booth is finding this out. He has proposed a great philanthropic scheme by which millions are to be redeemed not only from want but from wickedness, but no sooner are his intentions made known and his plan promulgated than he is fiercely beset by a pack of critics who treat him as if he proposed to make the world worse instead of better. Mr. Booth's scheme is being tested by criticism which is searching enough but certainly not friendly. The fire of the critics is directed not only against Mr. Booth's enterprise and his methods, but against himself. His fitness to carry out such an undertaking, and the wisdom of entrusting him with the enormous sum he asks for are freely questioned, and in terms which are neither considerate nor gentle.

The leader and encourager of this band of critics is the London Times. That great organ of public opinion treated Mr. Booth's scheme with distrust and suspicion from the first. It evidently believed that Mr. Booth proposed to do what is impossible, and it said so in unmistakable terms when Darkest England was placed before the public, and it has kept on doing so ever since. The Times has found an able, a persevering and an exceedingly pugnacious ally in Professor Huxley. A rich man who distrusted his own powers of discernment placed a large sum in the Professor's hands to be contributed towards the furtherance of the General's scheme, if, on inquiry, he should consider it worthy of support. The Professor did examine it, and its author, and the conclusion he has come to is that neither deserve the confidence of the philanthropist. He has, to do him justice, not been backward in giving the public his reasons for coming to this conclusion. They are contained in a series of letters to the Times, which are very lively reading. There are others who express themselves adversely to Mr. Booth's proposals, and who have little faith in his ability to accomplish what he has undertaken. Some of these, because they are Christians, will be received by the British public with more favor than the Professor, who is an agnostic and the inventor of the name.

It is contended that General Booth's system will make those who have been reformed under it unfit to become citizens of a self-governing country, and that his training will prevent them ever being able to earn their living by their independent, individual exertions. The Times' own correspondent inveighs with some force against the despotic nature of Booth's rule. He says:

"Absolute unquestioning obedience to the orders of superior officers is to be enforced. The rescued are to be made familiar, at every stage, with the discipline of the Salvation Army, and that discipline is that of child-like obedience, and nothing more, the ultimate sanction of every command being the power of expulsion. This is not a system tending in the direction of mental freedom; but there may be people to whom, for that very reason, it will appear choice-worthy. On the whole it is strange that, late in the world's history, in a country which has rebelled, time after time, against the tyranny of the priesthood—albeit in many instances the rebels have changed their masters, placing the Ritualistic priest or the Calvinistic preacher in the place of him from Rome—funds should be forthcoming for the aggrandizement of an illiterate priesthood dominated by a Pope who is pleased to call himself 'General.' The parallel is closer than men think."

Respecting the rescued and the reformed under Booth's system, this writer says:—

"If they are really reformed, if the habits of inebriation and idleness have been driven out of them thoroughly, they will be fit to take their places in the world as independent human beings, to be emancipated from the guardianship of the Salvation Army. If, on the other hand, they are sober, because liquor is inaccessible to them, if they work merely because there is the alternative of starvation before them, their sobriety is no more stable than that of a convict on Dartmoor, and their industry is merely superficial. In other words, if the scheme is worth anything, it must be prepared to pronounce a man free at some time or other, and to leave him to face natural temptations from the same footing as other men."

We fear very much that the Salvation industrial drill will not have the effect described in the last sentence of the above quotation. The rescued may be kept tolerably "straight" while under Salvation Army discipline, but, his training will, we fear, practically unfit him for thinking and acting for himself. For this reason, we have very little faith in the Overseas Colony part of General Booth's scheme. The man who becomes a useful member of a colonial community must have learned to think and act for himself. If General Booth's system tends to make those under it mere creatures of drill—pieces of animated mechanism in an artificial community—they will never succeed in a colony. The tendency of the passive obedience system is to take from a man his individuality and to incapacitate him for independent action.

The criticism of which General Booth and his scheme are the objects, is, no doubt, hard to bear, but is it not necessary? Is it not right for men to examine closely every scheme of reform submitted to them? We can easily understand that General Booth may make the sharpest strictures of the most unfriendly of his critics useful. He does not seem in the least dismayed. He replies to the most serious of the attacks made upon him personally in an admirable spirit, and he hopes to be able to prove to the world by what he does that his scheme is practicable, and that it is capable of ameliorating the condition of the classes which it is his object to rescue.

A QUESTION OF COMPETENCY.

The San Francisco Chronicle does not think that the question, whether the District Court of Alaska decided justly and according to law, when it condemned the British ship W. P. Sayward, which was seized by a United States cruiser sixty miles from land, is one which should be passed upon by a judicial tribunal. Our San Francisco contemporary has singular ideas with respect to the functions of a court of appeal. Surely, if the Alaskan inferior court could pass upon the question of jurisdiction, it is not too high or too difficult a one for the Supreme Court of the United States to consider and pronounce upon. This is what the Chronicle says on the subject:—

"Is the question a proper one to be passed upon by a judicial tribunal? We think not. It is of the very essence of a court that it shall have complete jurisdiction of the persons of litigants and of the subject matter of the controversy, and that it shall have power to enforce its decrees. In this case a number of these essentials are lacking. The foreign owner of the vessel, it is true, makes a nominal submission to the jurisdiction of the court, but that is all. He does not consent to be bound by the decision, nor if he did could it extend the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, for jurisdiction cannot be conferred by consent. The question would still be an open one, to be settled only by international agreement."

All these objections apply with greater force to the Alaskan Court than they do to the Supreme Court. The inferior court undertook to decide that a seizure made sixty miles from shore in Behring's Sea was lawful. It took upon itself to punish the "foreign owner" by depriving him of his property, and we have a notion that that owner was very far, indeed, from making a nominal or any other kind of submission to the Court. If deciding that the vessel has violated the law of the United States and declaring it and its cargo forfeit was not deciding upon the question of jurisdiction, we wonder how jurisdiction could be more emphatically and impressively asserted. Suppose the commander of a United States cruiser were insane enough to seize a British vessel in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, is there a court in the United States that would attempt to justify his act in any way? Not one. And why? Because it is known that the United States has no jurisdiction over the waters of that Gulf. Not only would the British ship-owner, or ship-master, be liberated with an ample apology and compensation for the damages and loss he had suffered on account of the seizure, but the commander of the cruiser would be court-martialled and degraded. But the British contention is that the United States has quite as good a claim to jurisdiction over the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence as it has over the waters of Behring's Sea outside the three mile limit. Surely, anyone capable of reason must see that the question of jurisdiction was settled by the Alaskan court as far as such a court could settle it. If the judge in that court considered that the jurisdiction of the United States in Behring's Sea did not extend beyond the shore further than a marine league, would he have begun to listen to proceedings against the W. P. Sayward after it had been proved that she had been seized upon the high seas?

KOCH'S CURE.

Koch's cure is not what is generally considered a medicine. It is not a drug or a preparation of drugs. It is neither vegetable nor mineral. It is a product of disease. In this it resembles the vaccine matter. The active element of the lymph is a poison of extraordinary virulence to persons affected by tuberculosis. The quantity used at each injection may be said to be almost infinitesimal. On the bacilli this matter has a most extraordinary effect, but where there are none of these agents of disease its action is mild. This is why the lymph is so useful in showing whether the patient is or is not what we unscientific people call "consumptive."

It is not easy to understand what the remedy really is. It is not the bacilli, but something which the bacilli produce. The telegram, which contains extracts from Dr. Koch's report, gives us the following information:

"The remedy which is used in the new treatment consists of a glycerine extract derived from the pure cultivation of tubercle bacilli into a simple extract. There naturally passes from the tubercle bacilli besides the effective substances all other matter soluble in fifty per cent. of glycerine."

The unprofessional reader may not be greatly edified by this information, but he may gather from it that Dr. Koch undertakes to cure consumption on a principle somewhat similar to that contained in the familiar saying about taking a hair of the dog that bit you. It is a bacillus, or rather many colonies of bacilli, that do the mischief from which the consumptive patient suffers, and it is from collections of this same bacillus, cultivated artificially, that Dr. Koch extracts the substance which he uses as a cure for consumption. A mild form of disease is not produced by the injection of the lymph, as is the case with vaccination, but it appears to act on the bacilli in the system as a poison. It kills them and the patient gets well. If the patient is too far gone, if there are too many bacilli in the system, the process of killing them is very hard on the patient, so hard that he cannot stand it, and he dies as well as the bacilli.

The curative nature of Dr. Koch's lymph is not yet, by any means, established. There are physicians who deny its efficacy, and who speak of it in contemptuous terms. But medical men, generally, believe in it. They think that it is a remedy for consumption, when applied during the earlier stages of the disease, and many of them look at it as valuable, not only as a cure for consumption, but as a mode of treatment which will eventually lead to the discovery of a certain cure for many other diseases. Very little is known, as yet, of the action of bacilli of different kinds in disease, but it is believed that the enquiries and discoveries of Dr. Koch and other investigators will result in other and, perhaps, even more valuable discoveries, and will completely revolutionize medical science.

Keep off the Chaps.

WET, wintry weather causes chapped hands, sore throat, croup, colds, pain in the chest, swellings, etc., for which a certain cure exists in Huxley's Yellow Oil, the best pain expeller for internal or external use. Keep it on hand in case of emergencies. Every bottle is a little giant in curative power.

DREADFUL PSORIASIS

Covering Entire Body with White Scales. Suffering Fearful. Cured by Cuticura.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and at last covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely bald-headed; it then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The white scales fell constantly from my head, shoulders and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy, and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change, and after I had taken four bottles, I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight.

It is not easy to understand what the remedy really is. It is not the bacilli, but something which the bacilli produce. The telegram, which contains extracts from Dr. Koch's report, gives us the following information:

"The remedy which is used in the new treatment consists of a glycerine extract derived from the pure cultivation of tubercle bacilli into a simple extract. There naturally passes from the tubercle bacilli besides the effective substances all other matter soluble in fifty per cent. of glycerine."

The unprofessional reader may not be greatly edified by this information, but he may gather from it that Dr. Koch undertakes to cure consumption on a principle somewhat similar to that contained in the familiar saying about taking a hair of the dog that bit you. It is a bacillus, or rather many colonies of bacilli, that do the mischief from which the consumptive patient suffers, and it is from collections of this same bacillus, cultivated artificially, that Dr. Koch extracts the substance which he uses as a cure for consumption. A mild form of disease is not produced by the injection of the lymph, as is the case with vaccination, but it appears to act on the bacilli in the system as a poison. It kills them and the patient gets well. If the patient is too far gone, if there are too many bacilli in the system, the process of killing them is very hard on the patient, so hard that he cannot stand it, and he dies as well as the bacilli.

The curative nature of Dr. Koch's lymph is not yet, by any means, established. There are physicians who deny its efficacy, and who speak of it in contemptuous terms. But medical men, generally, believe in it. They think that it is a remedy for consumption, when applied during the earlier stages of the disease, and many of them look at it as valuable, not only as a cure for consumption, but as a mode of treatment which will eventually lead to the discovery of a certain cure for many other diseases. Very little is known, as yet, of the action of bacilli of different kinds in disease, but it is believed that the enquiries and discoveries of Dr. Koch and other investigators will result in other and, perhaps, even more valuable discoveries, and will completely revolutionize medical science.

Keep off the Chaps.

WET, wintry weather causes chapped hands, sore throat, croup, colds, pain in the chest, swellings, etc., for which a certain cure exists in Huxley's Yellow Oil, the best pain expeller for internal or external use. Keep it on hand in case of emergencies. Every bottle is a little giant in curative power.

In the U. S. court at Indianapolis, on Monday, Charles LaBelle, the "king of the opium smugglers," recently captured at Olympia, Wash., was sentenced to eighteen months in the Michigan City penitentiary and a fine of $100.

Inquest Postponed.

The inquest on John Francis, the man who was drowned in the harbor about three weeks ago, is postponed until 9 o'clock this morning, the reason of the postponement being that Coroner Morrison was engaged in the Davies vs. McMillan case yesterday.

They Insure Their Men.

In the Victoria Rice and Flour Mills, as well as in the Montreal mills owned and operated by the same firm, all regular employees are insured against accident by the firm, at no expense to themselves, the only condition being that whiskey be let alone. Messrs. Hall, Ross & Co. find the plan works well.

Information Wanted.

Postmaster Shakespeare received a letter from K. Harper, of Toronto, asking the whereabouts of Emmanuel Leivers, contractor and builder; the letter says that it will be to his advantage to turn up. He also received a letter from Mrs. Stella Griffin, 46 Lisbon street, Lanston, Maine, inquiring about her son, John J. Brown. She has heard from him once in the last 21 years, and that was from Victoria.

The Salmon Canneries.

The coming season is expected to be a very slack one among the Fraser river salmon canneries. Notwithstanding this fact, Messrs. Windsor & Hobson have commenced the foundation piles for a new cannery on Lulu Island, which will be a large and well equipped establishment. The canners meet again shortly, to resume the consideration of fishing regulations and other matters of importance to their interests.

Among the Children.

Among the many entertainments which are being held in the different churches, the First Presbyterian continues to supply the best. There was a supper given in the schoolroom last evening, where three large tables were set. The room was nicely decorated with greenery and well adorned with bunting for the occasion. At 8 o'clock the audience left the tables and entered the church, where a grand children's entertainment was held. The room was filled to its full capacity, and a well selected programme was given.

B. C. Rifle Association.

The annual general meeting of the subscribers to the fund of the above association will be held in the Pioneer Hall, this Wednesday. The president of the association requests the attendance of as many members of the B.C.R.A. as possible, as the association depends almost wholly upon the efforts of the members of this club in the province for its success in carrying out its objects, and maintaining the association on a proper footing. The business of the meeting will comprise the election of a new council and office bearers for the current year.

Davies v. McMillan.

This case was continued all day yesterday before Chief Justice Begbie and a special jury. The evidence on both sides having been completed, counsel summed up the law and the facts, after which His Lordship gave the case to the jury, who after a brief absence returned with a verdict affirming the regularity of Mr. Davies' action in the matter and adjudging him to be entitled to the amount of $9,161. A number of very important law points were reserved which when judgment on the answers is moved for may have a very considerable bearing.

A New Sash and Door Factory.

The firm of Lemon and Gunneson Bros. are building a large sash and door factory almost opposite Roderick Finlayson's residence, on Government street. This firm have been employed by Johnson, Walker & Flett, the proprietors of the Queen City sash and door factory, for some years past. The building's dimensions are 50 x 80 feet, and what (including building) is 150 x 160. The factory will be fitted out with the latest machinery, having an elevator, etc. Mr. G. J. Jones has the contract, and he says the factory will be in operation in about five weeks. Messrs. Lemon & Gunneson Brothers are all first class workmen, and it is expected that they will get their share of the sash and door business.

A Lottery Swindle.

Edward H. Horner, a banker of Wall street, New York, has, it is reported from New York, been arrested for sending lottery circulars through the mails. His accuser, Inspector Conrad, has alleged that Horner represents a number of European bond agencies, which are nothing less than lottery houses, whose business exceeds that of the far-famed Louisiana lottery, amounting to no less than $100,000,000 annually, all of it controlled by Horner, who has branch establishments in Boston, St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Denver, Birmingham, Ala.; San Francisco, St. Joseph, Mo.; Mexico and South America. The contention having been raised that the case did not come under the Federal statutes, the hearing was adjourned.

Colonial Metropole.

This hotel, formerly known as the "Colonial," is owned by Mr. Thomas Tugwell, the well-known hotel man of this city. From the commencement Mr. Tugwell was always pushed for room, and, last year, he decided to rebuild. The old hotel is replaced by a fine three-story brick building, equipped with the latest improvements. On each storey there is a large parlor, large bedrooms, bath rooms for ladies and gentlemen, and a lavatory at the end of each hall. The dining room is large, and a reading room is attached, with all the latest papers on file. Mr. Tugwell is doing a fine business, and most of his rooms are continually occupied. He sets a good table, and is well liked by all who know him. The Colonial Metropole is on Johnson street.

Sunday School Festival.

Last night, the teachers and scholars of the Pandora Avenue Methodist Sunday school had a very enjoyable and successful entertainment, under the direction of the superintendent, Mr. Burkholder, and his associate officers. The affair was largely attended both by teachers and scholars, and the members of the church and other friends were out in force. A liberal and most substantial supply of provisions was served and heartily enjoyed, after which a comparatively free rein was given to the juveniles, who enjoyed themselves to their hearts' content until the managers deemed that the time had arrived to send them home. There was no semblance of anything calculated to repress genuine and hearty enjoyment, and the whole affair was in every way an immense success, and will be regarded by many as entitled to be chronicled in red letter terms.

Comus Club.

The regular monthly dance, under the auspices of the Comus club, was held last evening. Fully ninety-five couples assembled in the Philharmonic hall. Prof. Porter's orchestra, as usual, supplied very good music. Supper was partaken of at eleven o'clock.

Band of Hope.

At the Gorge road Methodist Sunday school, on Monday evening, seventy-eight young people pledged themselves to abstain from intoxicating liquors as a beverage, the use of tobacco and the use of profane language. Office-bearers will be appointed on the evening of the 30th inst., and then the society will be on a very firm basis.

The Late Capt. Dunn.

The Finance committee of the Westminster city council have written to Assistant Commissioner T. R. Smith, to the effect that while they disclaim any responsibility for the death of the late Capt. Dunn, they will make a certain amount of compensation to the widow. The offer, if such it may be called, it is understood, has been declined, and the action for damages will be taken into court at once.

Spanish Students.

This famous company of artists make their first appearance in Victoria, Thursday evening, the 22nd, at The Theatre. They are under the leadership of the eminent violin virtuoso, Rinaldo Rebagliati, who, at the age of fourteen, made his first bow to the public as leader of concert to the great artist Gottschalk. Since then he has been leader of orchestras for Patti, Senor Pablo, Sarasate and Theodore Ritter.

Crossed Wires.

Two electric wires became crossed in front of the Arcade, on Government street, yesterday afternoon, and the result was that an awning was soon in flames. A large crowd of spectators soon assembled, and the fire department also made their appearance on the scene. In the meantime, a bucket of water from above put an end to the conflagration, and almost drowned a volunteer Chinese fireman, at one and the same time.

The First Parliament.

An excellent photograph of a majority of the members of the first Legislative Assembly of British Columbia has recently been prepared from the original, in the possession of Hon. J. S. Helmcken. The group includes Messrs. MacKay, Skinner, Helmcken, Pemberton and Yates, and "the model clerk," Mr. Porter. Mr. Kennedy was dead when the picture was taken, and Mr. Barnston and Mr. Muir, who seldom appeared in the House, are not in the picture.

This Evening's Concert.

Everything is going along swimmingly in connection with the Burns' concert by the choir of the First Presbyterian church. By the alterations to the hall of the church, last summer, the seating accommodation has been increased to about 450, and at a push will hold 500. As far as can be learned the sale of tickets has been extra large. The rehearsals, last night, were of the most satisfactory character, and, no doubt, the hall will be packed to overflowing.

Severely Hurt.

A popular and hard-working young man named Grummett, employed at Sayward's saw-mill was, yesterday morning, severely injured, while attempting to shift a belt with his hands. He was caught by the belt and thrown very heavily, his face striking the box. The skull was fractured, the nose broken, and the eye badly injured. After having his injuries attended to by a medical man, he was removed to the Jubilee Hospital, where he is now receiving every attention.

Victoria West.

The congregation of the Methodist church at Victoria West are about to secure a new organ for use in the services. Towards this purchase a considerable sum has already been subscribed. The young people of the congregation have in hand the preparation of a choice programme of music, singing, recitations, &c., which will be presented on Friday evening next, the 23rd inst., beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Tickets of admission, 25 cents. The proceeds will be applied to the organ fund. Everybody is invited.

The Assault Upon Mons. Marboeuf.

M. Louis Marboeuf, who was assaulted at his own back door, early Monday morning, yesterday, discovered, where it had evidently been thrown by his assailant, an uncommonly large stuffed club. The said bag was three or four feet long, apparently made from the lining, from the sleeve of a woman's dress, and filled with cotton wool. It would not be as valuable as an ordinary sand bag on account of its length, but is, nevertheless, an unpleasant looking weapon. Chief Sheppard has it now, and he has telegraphed to intercept the person who is suspected of having made the assault.

Gun Club.

At a meeting of the newly formed gun club, held last evening, the following resolution was adopted:— "That a committee of three be appointed to wait on the Attorney-General and to approve of the bill now introduced, to prohibit the use and carriage of firearms without a license, providing the bill covers in its operation the province of British Columbia, and not of Vancouver Island alone. And that the proceeds of such a license be used for the protection and introduction of game into the province. The general opinion of the members is that it is very unjust to have Vancouver Island come under the operation of the act and the rest of the province be not included."

Medical Writs.

THE quickest, surest and best remedy for rheumatism, neuritis, lumbago, sore throat, jaundice, is the use of the Yellow Oil. It quickly cures sprains, bruises, burns, frostbites, chilblains, etc. For croup, colds, quinsy, etc., take 10 to 30 drops on sugar, and apply the oil externally also, when immediate relief will result.

THE EARTH.

Continuation of Rev. J. Wastie Green's Series of Lectures in the Cathedral School House.

Rev. J. Wastie Green, last night, delivered another of the series of lectures that he is giving in the school-house of Christ Church Cathedral. He said:

"We have already considered the important part played by the outer envelope, the life-sustaining atmosphere, and seen how it forms an integral part of the rotating globe, being in fact the lightest and most attenuated form of the matter of which the globe consists, and showing this by the fact of its being subject to gravitation and pressure. We have now to show how intimately connected that outer envelope is with the inner water envelope from which it is continually being supplied with vast stores of aqueous vapor to be disposed wherever needed, and again returned to the surface of the sea in the shape of rain and dew-water. For every drop of rain that falls has been raised by the sun from the ocean and ultimately returns to its bosom again to recommence again its unceasing routine of evaporation and condensation. We have observed also the laws of permanent winds, and the causes which lead to the chief variable air currents, and we saw how their directions depended primarily on the earth's rotation, and secondarily on the sun's action north and south of the equator. And when we come to examine the ocean, with its currents and tidal laws, we shall find that these two depend on the earth's rotation, as also on the sun's action in warming their surfaces. As we enquired into the composition and weight of the atmosphere so we may examine the composition of the sea and its functions." The lecturer, after going into details of these, summed them up as follows: that the salt of the sea is largely due to the components of the original atmosphere from which it was condensed, as also to the mineral salts carried into it by rivers; that seawater is regularly aerated by the waves, the air is diffused into its depths, serving for the respiration of submarine lives, and that from the dead bodies of sea animals and plants is built up again protoplasm—the fundamental substance of plant and animal life—and diffused throughout the ocean. Mr. Green then proceeded to discuss the depths of the great ocean basins, and to describe the great currents, showing how, while chiefly caused by the action of the great air currents, they are affected by the formation of land, and how they differ in direction according as they are in northern or southern hemispheres, together with the influence of the gulf stream and great equatorial Pacific current on the climates of Western Europe and North America. From this the lecturer passed to the law of tides and their mathematical demonstration, and then to the work done by the sea in supplying the moisture to the atmosphere in regulating the distribution of temperature, in wearing away and reducing the area of land, and, on the other hand, in receiving and preserving the materials for the future formation of new land.

PUSHING THE WORK.

Extension of the Seattle and Northern Going Rapidly On—Cause and Effect.

ANACORTES, Wash., Jan. 19.—In connection with the news that the Oregon Improvement company's affairs have been straightened out and that all their numerous enterprises will be given an added impetus, comes the announcement that work on their railroad, the Seattle & Northern, is being rapidly pushed up the Skagit valley, and connection will be established between Hamilton and Anacortes in about three weeks. On Tuesday last 100 men were sent to the end of the track, and rails and material are being forwarded. The Seattle & Northern taps the richest timber, coal and iron and agricultural region in the state, and it is significant that this road, which is the greatest enterprise the Oregon Improvement company has on hand at present, is obtaining the first consideration of the company. Within the past few months there have been numerous announcements made of rich discoveries of coal in this region that have been surprises to all except those most intimate with the rich prospects of the Skagit. The Blue Canyon mine, which has just been opened, produces the finest coking coal on the Pacific coast, and work is now being done on prospects which show a fine quality of anthracite coal. And to the greatest coal fields of the North-west the fact that iron is found in fine quality and in abundance and is now being mined, that limestone is plentiful, and you catch a glimpse of the cause which is urging the Oregon Improvement company to push its line into the heart of this region and provide an early outlet for this wealth to the most advantageous shipping point on the Sound—Anacortes. Now, that the company is not in any way embarrassed, it is positive, too, that they will continue their road to the Eastern Washington grain country and thus make their terminus at Anacortes, the great shipping point of the Sound. Indeed, they have thus early asserted that this is just what will be done.

GRAND OPERA IN ENGLISH.

Emma Juch and Her Superb Company to Appear at The Victoria.

Manager Austin will present to his patrons a season of grand English opera, commencing Thursday, Feb. 5th, by the Emma Juch Grand English Opera Company. It embraces among its members the very cream of lyric stars, both of this country and Europe. It is headed by America's own prima donna, Miss Emma Juch, who stands foremost among all prima donnas, having achieved an enviable distinction in Italian, German and English opera. She has a beautiful stage appearance, true dramatic fire and a voice of great strength and exquisite sweetness. Her company is made up with the idea of giving her such support as an artist of her accomplishments demands, embracing such noted singers as Georgina Von Janschowsky, Carlotta Macondi, Marie Frebert, sopranos; Louise Meisling, Bernice Holmes, contraltos; Payne Clark, Charles Heilmont, William Stephens, George Gould, tenors; Otto Rathjens, Henry Vogel, Alberto Canino, baritones; Franz Vetta, E. N. Knight and S. H. Dwyer, basses. This magnificent body of singers will have the assistance of an orchestra of thirty and a chorus of eighty powerful voices. The repertoire selected is one of unusual strength and introduces Miss Juch in two of her greatest impersonations. The operas will be given in the following order: Thursday, Ambrosio Thomas beautiful "Mignon"; Friday, Verdi's "Rigoletto"; Saturday matinee, "Carmen" and Saturday evening Wagner's greatest work "Lohengrin." The mounting and costuming of these great musical dramas will eclipse anything heretofore seen in this city, it requiring five cars to handle the scenery, costumes, properties and different effects used in these operas. The sale of seats will open Wednesday, January 28th. The Juch company this season is fully forty per cent. stronger than last year. The scale of prices will range from one to three dollars according to location, which is remarkably reasonable when the immensity of this organization is taken into consideration.

UNHAPPY PARISIANS.

The Miserable Poor of the French Metropolis Being Warmed by Fires in the Streets.

Such Terrible Weather Never Known in Europe Before - Algiers Covered With Snow.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—The municipal authorities to-night lighted hundreds of fires in the streets of the city, and large numbers of wretchedly poor persons crowded around them to obtain some relief from the intense cold which prevails. Every effort is being made to relieve the great distress and the Palace de Beaux-arts has been converted into a night shelter for the homeless, and is provided with a soup kitchen. Municipal buildings elsewhere are also used for similar purposes. An epidemic of disease resembling influenza has broken out in Berlin.

Dispatches from all parts of France tell of great inconvenience and suffering caused by the intense cold weather. The harbors of Toulon and Lausanne are frozen over for the first time on record. The olive crop in the department of Gard is fast being ruined. The whole community in the neighborhood of Perpignan, in the Pyrenees, is cut off from communication, and way-farers have been frozen to death. At Saragossa, Spain, the mercury is 14 degrees Fahrenheit, and snow is falling. A large number of vessels are ice-bound at Bordeaux. Packs of wolves and wild boars are invading the isolated districts. The animals have become desperate through hunger, and fearlessly prowl about the houses to the great consternation of the people. The same state of affairs exist in Spain.

Advices from Algiers are to the effect that the country is covered with snow, and that traffic is blocked.

Yesterday, an aged man was found frozen to death in a lodging-house in this city. The thermometer, yesterday, touched 7 degrees Fahrenheit at Macon, 9 here, 12 at Toulouse, and 5 at Grenoble. Wells are frozen at Perpignan, where a man was found frozen to death in the street. A woman was found frozen to death in bed at Spignal, where the thermometer indicated 4 degrees below zero. Slight snow falls are reported from the Riviera.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The severity of the weather recently experienced in Great Britain is increasing. There is much suffering among the poorer classes, and from various sections of the country come accounts of many cattle, and, in several instances, human beings, having been frozen to death. Several trades are at a stand-still. A lady was found, to-day, frozen to death in a railroad carriage at a station in this city.

VIENNA, Jan. 19.—Nearly all the roads and railroads throughout Austria are blocked with snow, causing considerable delay. In addition a number of country towns are completely isolated, and are likely to remain so for some time. These towns are suffering for inability to renew their coal and provision supplies.

KIEL, Jan. 19.—The Baltic sea, so far as can be seen from the lighthouse, is covered with ice. Lake Constance is covered with ice and navigation is suspended.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Several steamers in the ice-blocked river Elbe have lost their propellers by dashing against ice-floats. A number of vessels have parted their anchor chains and are drifting hopelessly in the stream. The strongest tugs cannot leave the harbor of Cuxhaven on account of the ice. Citizens are assisting the military to blast the ice with melinite.

Reports from all parts show that the thermometer has touched many degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, but that the cold is bearable in the absence of wind. The ice here is 18 inches thick. The sea between Stratsund and Rugen, five miles in width, is alive with skaters and sleighs. The ponds are frozen to the bottom. Twenty-one head of deer in the royal forest at Boudath have died.

In Holland and Belgium several feet of snowfall have put a stop to railway and street travel. Thousands of men are engaged in clearing the roads. On the coast of Holland the sea is frozen over a great distance, and there are banks of ice on shore of extreme beauty. Only the harbors of Rotterdam and Flushing are accessible to vessels.

Advices from Naples report the death of two persons from cold. The Italian rivers are incumbered with ice. The roof of a school for boys at San Duncerio gave way beneath the burden of snow and ice, and the whole mass went crashing into the schoolroom below. Twenty pupils were injured. On the frontier near Geneva a man was found frozen to death.

Several vessels have been wrecked in the Bay of Biscay, and a number of lives lost. Gales throughout Europe are the severest in years.

STARVING SLOWLY.

Snow-Bound Inhabitants of an Algerian Village in Terrible Straits.

ALGIERS, Jan. 17.—Unless a miracle happens or the weather changes within a very short time, the inhabitants of Seb-dou, a small town in the district of Tlemcen, province of Orana, will starve to death.

About a week ago information reached Tlemcen that the inhabitants of Seb-dou were snowed up beyond escape and were slowly starving to death.

The stock of provisions had run out before the bearer of the news reached Tlemcen, and it was said that horses, mules, and even cats were being killed for food.

As in the majority of small towns, Seb-dou depended entirely upon convoys of provisions which reached them from the larger towns, and the stock kept on hand is comparatively small.

When the news reached the military authorities of Tlemcen, they immediately sent a quantity of provisions, under an escort of troops, to the relief of Seb-dou.

Unhappily the convoy a day or two later was snowed up in the Terni pass, and it was some time before the authorities at Tlemcen became aware of the danger to which the convoy was exposed.

An additional force was then sent out

from Tlemcen, with instructions to push on at all hazards to the relief of the snowed-up troops, and afterward, if possible, to assist the convoy in pushing on to Seb-dou. The second detachment reached Terni pass, and on January 15 it was announced that the convoy had been extricated from its perilous position. To-day information was received that the attempt to provision Seb-dou had failed, that the district was hopelessly snowed up and the troops were continuing their efforts to open up a line of communication to Tlemcen. Grave fears are entertained for the inhabitants of the snowed-up district.

The French, used to an African summer, and utterly unaccustomed to such a severely cold winter as this, make but poor headway in the snow. The troops themselves are suffering terribly from cold.

Their clothing, camp equipage and small-shelter tents are unfitted for the bitterly cold work of digging mile upon mile through the snow towards Seb-dou.

Then again, the high winds which have been prevailing greatly hinder the work of the troops, raising huge drifts of snow in places which the soldiers had previously cleared. This greatly discourages the men. The troops also suffer from lack of fuel.

THE LADIES' JOURNAL

Gives a Daily Prize of a Handsome China Tea Service.

One dollar will get you THE LADIES' JOURNAL for one year. If you send correct answers to the following questions along with your dollar: Where in the Bible are these words first found, 1, Money; 2, Coal; 3, Wood; and if your letter is the first one received at THE LADIES' JOURNAL office any day between now and 25th March next, containing correct answers, you will get a handsome China Tea Service of 44 pieces. There are also three large lists of other valuable prizes, pianos, gold and silver watches, silver tea services, China dinner sets, silver dinner and tea knives, large cash rewards and scores of other prizes. Send ten cents in stamps and get a sample copy of THE JOURNAL containing these lists in full, or better still, send your dollar and answers and get THE JOURNAL for 12 months. Address Editor T. LADIES' JOURNAL, Toronto, Canada. No matter where you live, you have a good opportunity to win this daily prize, as it is the first letter received each day.

WANTS TO KNOW, YOU KNOW.

TO THE EDITOR.—I notice in to-day's issue that at No. 103 Government street a debating society orated on the question: "That the Indian has been more abused by the white man than the negro." By the shade of the immortal Garrison, when and where did the negro ever abuse "poor lo?"

CIGARS

Have such an enormous sale

THEY ARE THE CHEAPEST because they cost NO MORE to the CONSUMERS than Cigars of much inferior quality.

THEY ARE THE BEST because only the finest class of tobaccos are used in their manufacture.

THEY ARE THE ONLY RELIABLE ones because they have a reputation to maintain that has cost a fortune to establish.

THEY ARE THE MOST POPULAR because they have earned their popularity on their merits in spite of the thousands of brands that have been introduced (and since died out) since their introduction.

They Have Many Imitators BUT NO EQUALS.

The Demand is Greater than Ever.

MILLIONS SOLD ANNUALLY.

They will always be the superiors of all other cigars now in the market or that may be introduced at any time, if the finest of the crops and forty years experience can maintain the position they now occupy.

ODD ANCIENT CUSTOMS.

In the middle ages the lower animals were frequently tried, convicted and punished for various offenses.

In 1085, when the Protestant chapel at Rochelle was condemned to be demolished, the bell thereof was publicly whipped for having assisted heretics with its tongue.

Amos the legends of the early Celtic saints nothing is more common than the story of the saint being sent to borrow fire and carrying it in his lap without the fire injuring his garment.

In ancient Greece a law of Pittacus enacted that "he who commits a crime when drunk shall receive a double punishment"—one for the crime itself and the other for the inebriety which prompted him to commit it.

In 1266 a pig was burned at Fontenay-aux-Roses, near Paris, for having eaten a child. In 1386 a judge of Falaise condemned a sow to be mutilated and hanged for a similar offense. Three years later a horse was solemnly tried before the magistrate and condemned to death for having killed a man.

In the days of King Edgar the lives of criminals were sometimes spared on condition of devoting themselves to killing wolves, and periodically producing a given number of wolves' tongues. Several estates in what we now call the Midland counties, notably in Derbyshire, were held on this tenure.

In the fifteenth century it was believed that cocks were intimately associated with witches, and were credited with laying accursed eggs, from which sprang winged serpents. In 1474, at Bale, a cock was publicly accused of having laid one of these dreadful eggs. He was tried, sentenced to death, and, together with the egg, was burned by the executioner in the market place.

RAILWAY NOTES.

The railroad capital of the world is estimated at $29,000,000,000.

The five New England States have built so far this year 10 miles of railroad. North Carolina has built 226.

It costs on an average 2.17 cents to carry a passenger one mile in the United States, and the average length of his trip is 24.17 miles.

READING cars fitted out with the most popular periodicals and books will be attached to the passenger trains on the St. Petersburg-Varsaw railroad. Great care will be taken to have the cars properly lighted in the evening.

In England one person out of every 2,500,000 people carried is killed. In France one out of every 2,000,000 passengers is killed. In Belgium one out of every 9,000,000 is killed. In Prussia only one out of 21,500,000 is killed.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has awarded contracts for building an iron ferry-boat which, when completed, will be the largest and strongest ferry-boat afloat. The new vessel will be entirely of iron, except the joinder work, and will be a double-decker, propelled by a screw at each end.

The Imperial Council has sanctioned the plan of building the Gebrian railroad. The work will begin immediately. The entire cost of the enterprise is estimated at about 400,000,000 rubles. The road will unite the interior of Siberia with the Pacific Ocean and will be very advantageous for strategic purposes.

INDUSTRIAL ADVANCEMENT.

DULUTH is talking about a $3,000,000 ship canal.

The pneumatic line between New York and Philadelphia is now considered an assured fact. It is expected that it will transport large packages between the two cities in less than twenty minutes.

OFFICIAL returns of the Canadian seal fishery show that 39,547 seals were taken the past season, an increase of 6,000 over last year. Of this number 2,383 were taken off the coast of British Columbia and 18,105 in Behring Sea.

The mineral fields of Idaho are among the largest in the world, and since their discovery have produced $157,830,662. The yield last year was as follows: Gold, $2,204,500; silver, $7,057,500; lead, $6,420,000; copper, $85,000.

There is a prune orchard of forty trees at Grangerville, Cal., which bore this year 23,200 pounds of fruit, an average of 705 pounds to the tree. One tree among the number produced 1,140 pounds. The fruit has sold in that locality this season for 9½ cents a pound.

There is a project to construct a ship canal across New Jersey from the Delaware river to the Atlantic. The scheme was first suggested by merchants of Philadelphia, who desire a shorter water route to New York and an abbreviation of the journey of hundreds of miles down the bay and around Cape May to strike the ocean paths to Europe.

THE NOTE PAPER THEY USE.

Mrs. HARRISON fluctuates between white and a pearl gray in her choice of note paper.

Mrs. CLEVELAND invariably uses either a pure white or a pale gray paper for use in her correspondence.

Mrs. ASTOR finds a white woven parchment finish more to her taste than any thing else for letter paper.

The Marquise de Lanza invariably uses a pale azure-lined paper with a small red crown in the left-hand corner.

Mrs. JAMES G. BLAINE's dinner card is a white card with silver border of silver and a small "B" in silver at the top.

Mrs. AUGUSTE BELMONT's dinner cards are of plain white cardboard, book-shaped, with the Belmont crest in colors on the outside corner.

Mrs. LEVI P. MORTON has for years used a smooth linen note paper in pure white, with her monogram, I. M., in dark-blue at the top of the page.

Mrs. CHARLES COOMBS is an ardent admirer of rose color, and every particle of note paper or cards in her quaint writing-desk bears a faint tinge of old rose color.

PRETTY MABEL WRIGHT was formerly very fond of heavy white etching note paper, but since she has become Mrs. Ferdinand Yznaga she uses cream linen paper with Edgely court in fine red etching.
